Curling Alberta is happy to announce that Jason Ginter will be joining its team as Education Coordinator. He will be based in our Edmonton office and his first day will be September 14, 2020.

Jason is an experienced competitive curler with a wealth of knowledge and experience in the coaching field, specializing in mental skills coaching. He completed his Bachelor of Kinesiology degree and has won two national university curling championships. Jason is also in the process of completing his Master of Coaching degree at the University of Alberta. Jason has represented our province at both the U18 Optimist International and the CIS/USports National Championships, as well as many World Curling Tour events over the past nine curling seasons. He has also assumed a leadership role as a mental skills coach for the Green & Gold Sport System over the past three years.

As Education Coordinator, Jason will coordinate training and education opportunities for coaches, officials, and ice technicians; ensuring all aspects are executed with excellence. He will also act as a liaison to assist communication and cooperation between Curling Alberta and its partners, leaders, and member clubs.

Curling Alberta believes that Jason's combination of coaching education and curling experience will give him every opportunity to thrive in this new position. We are pleased to welcome such a qualified member of the curling community to our team!

Jason can be reached at 780-454-2875 or at jason.ginter@curlingalberta.ca
